Peak Body

Strategic Priorities

Provide a dedicated, impartial voice to the autistic and autism community

Improve inclusion of autistic people

Be recognised as the leading advocates, delivering expertise in autism

Key Strategic Goals

We will collaborate with the autistic and autism community to increase our collective impact on influencing government and decision makers to improve the lives of autistic people.

We will make a significant and measurable improvement to society's awareness of the need for inclusion of autistic people.

We will provide expertise and support to autistic people, their families, the community, educators, government departments and other agencies, and organisations interested in the welfare and outcomes for autistic people.

Service Delivery

Strategic Priorities

Support autistic people to develop strong relationships and positively engage the community

Support autistic people to achieve academic outcomes

Support autistic people to find and maintain a job

Deliver evidence-informed therapeutic supports that focus on building skills for autistic individuals

Key Strategic Goals

To assist autistic people to develop relationships and friendships in a safe and self-determined way.

We want to provide autistic learners with an inclusive and supportive education environment that addresses their unique needs and promotes their academic, social, and emotional development.

We want more autistic people to thrive in mainstream employment, and for more employers to recognise what autistic people bring to the workforce.

We want our staff and services to add value to the lives of autistic people and the autism community.
